A comedy of cohabitation among seven college seniors during the mid-1960's. It gave a view of the problems facing students now as well as then. The play wasn't exclusively on the trivial side though. There was an inclusion of undercurrents of the time — Vietnam, the draft, the depressed job market for college graduates, and the emotional strain of cohabitation. Yet the nostalgic atmosphere and the several kinds of humor made this production a well presented view of college life.

The Time of Your Life

Directed by Bruce C. Jacobsen

In the time of your life, live — so that in that good time there shall be no ugliness or death for yourself or for any life your life touches. Seek goodness everywhere, and when it is found, bring it out of its hiding-place and let it be free and unashamed. Place in matter and in flesh the least of the values, for these are the things that hold death and must pass away. Discover in all things that which shines and is beyond corruption. Encourage virtue in whatever heart, it may have been driven into secrecy and sorrow by the shame and terror of the world. Ignore the obvious, for it is unworthy of the clear eye and the kindly heart. Be the inferior of no man, nor ot any man be the superior. Remember that every man is a variation of yourself. No man's guilt is not yours, nor is any man's innocence a thing apart. Despise evil and ungodliness, but not men of ungodliness or evil. These, understand. Have no shame in being kindly and gentle, but if the time comes in the time of your life to kill, kill and have no regret. In the time of your life, live — so that in that wondrous time you shall not add to the misery and sorrow of the world, but shall smile to the infinite delight and mystery of it.

— William Saroyan

"Farce" enjoys reveling in disorder and, in its revelry, becomes an indirect affirmation of order. In other words, the farcical leap into nonsense, irrationality, and disorder must presuppose some substratum of sense, rationality and order or there would be no laughter. Ironically, comedy discloses what a society holds sacred by profaning the sacred.

CEC Concert Hits Home

. . . Then Kenny Loggins and Jim Messina walked on stage with two Ovation guitars. The crowd, which had seemingly overcapacitated the area near the stage, went wild when the artists appeared. But with a little persuasion from some of the more mellow members of the audience and help of Loggins and Messina's opening numbers, everyone found cramped spaces on the floor.

Kenny Loggins predominated this first series of mellow tunes and his style of soft folk rock combined with Jim Messina's vocal harmony were accepted warmly . . .

Then the group . . . began to move into some rhythmic jazz sounds. The audience was immediately up on its feet and totally involved with the music. Loggins and Messina were giving the people a style they had developed well and it was as different from some of their big single hits as night and day . . .

It became clear as the group rocked along with a jazz flavor what two people with originally different tastes in music could produce. Messina's rock flavor was married perfectly with Loggins' softer style . . .

The group saved most of their more popular hits for the encore which came after about five minutes of stomping and clapping and screaming by the audience . . .

The outcome of the evening was a very successful one and Campus Entertainment should be commended.

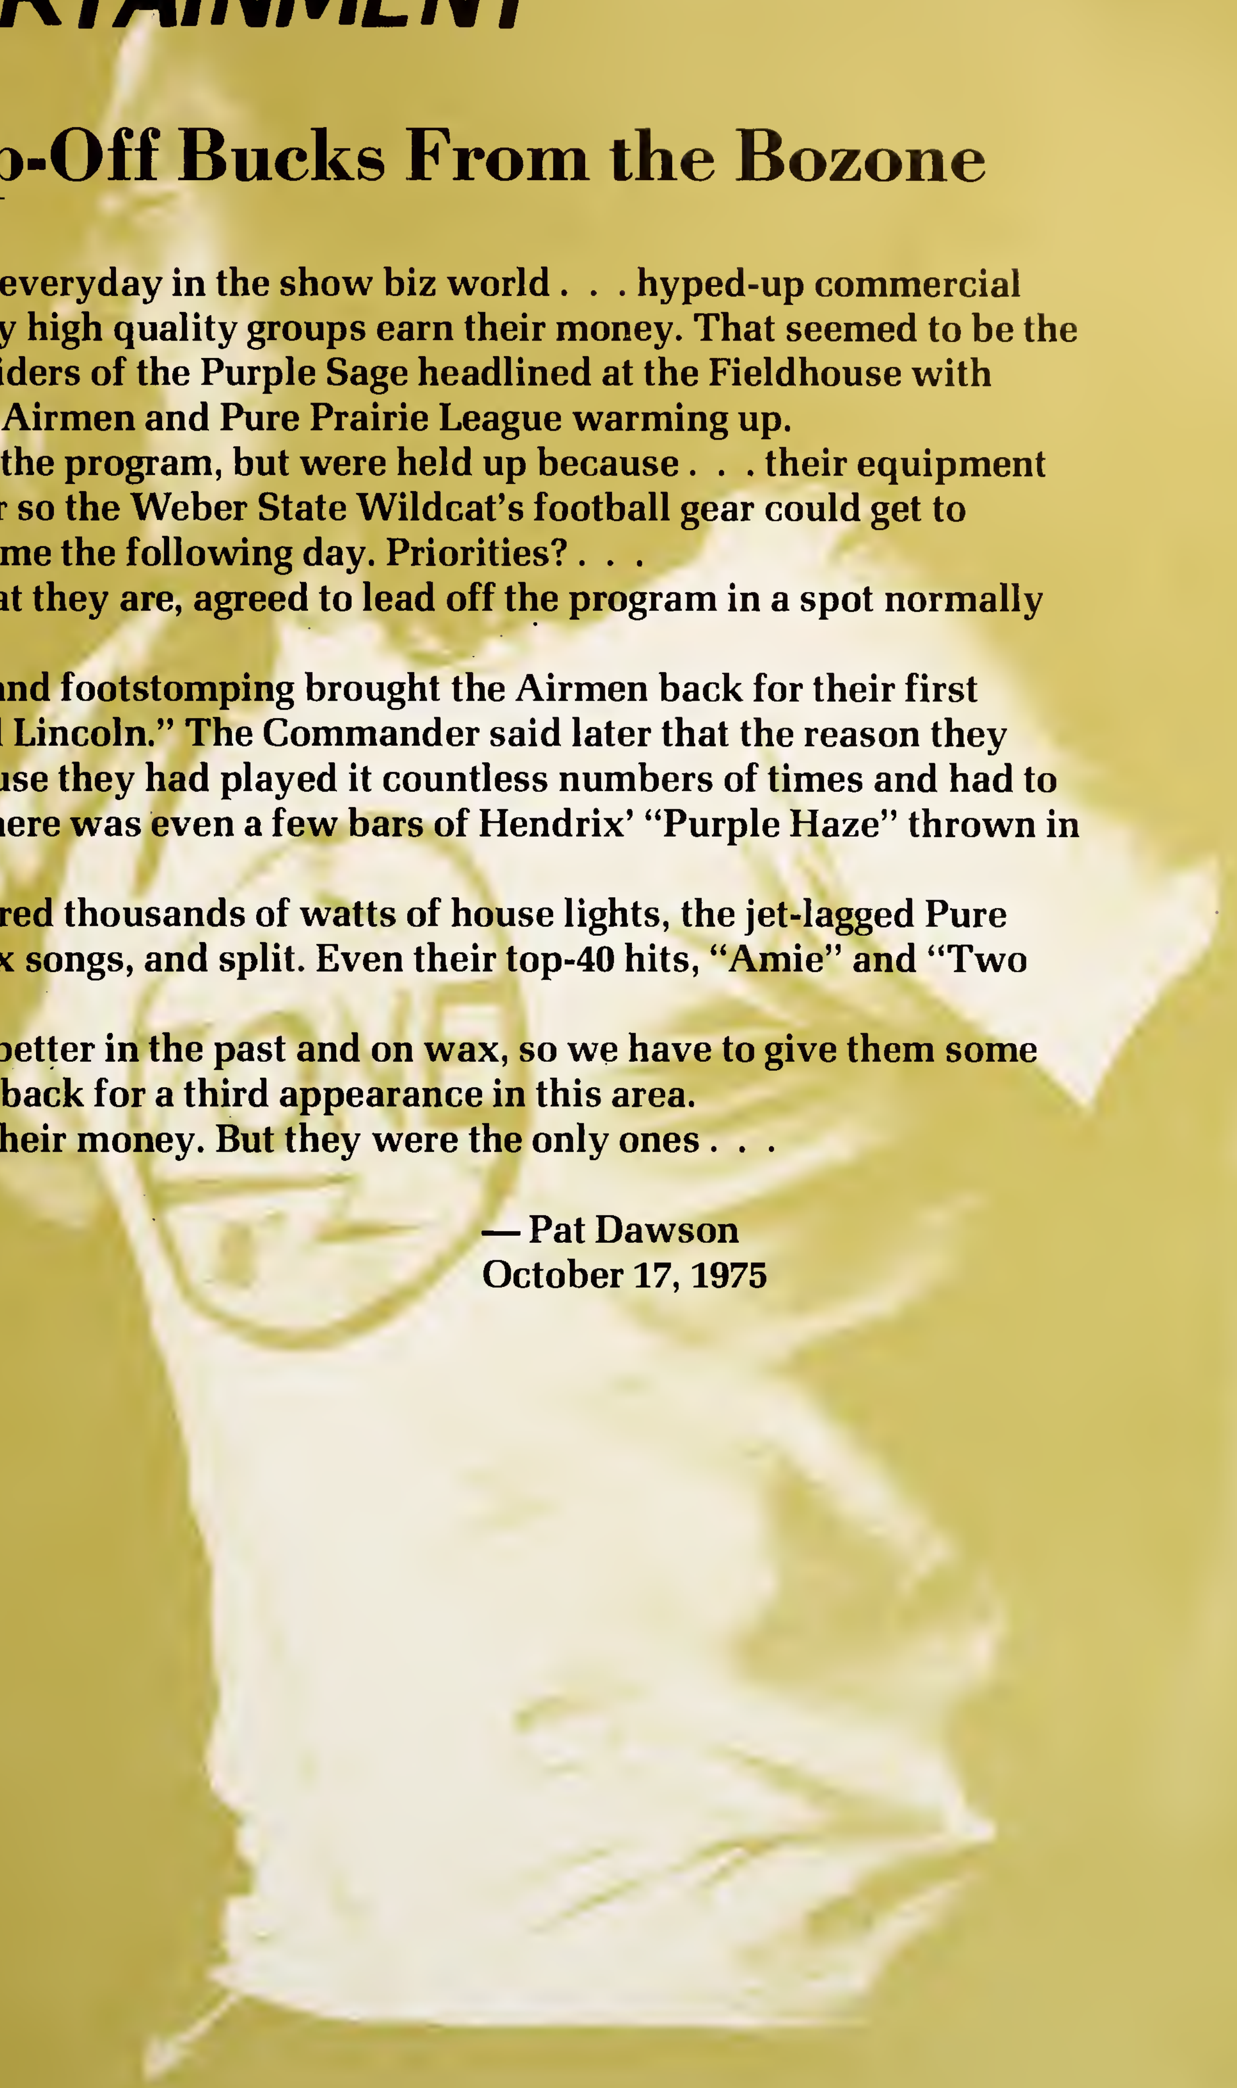
Airmen Fly, Rest Rip-Off Bucks From the Bozone



It seems to be getting more common everyday in the show biz world . . . hyped-up commercial music acts get overpaid while the really high quality groups earn their money. That seemed to be the case last Friday night when the New Riders of the Purple Sage headlined at the Fieldhouse with Commander Cody and His Lost Planet Airmen and Pure Prairie League warming up.

PPL was originally slated to lead off the program, but were held up because . . . their equipment got bumped off the commercial airliner so the Weber State Wildcat's football gear could get to Bozeman for the MSU Homecoming game the following day. Priorities? . . .

Commander Cody, gracious band that they are, agreed to lead off the program in a spot normally reserved for milder acts . . .

Lighted matches, whoops, clapping and footstomping brought the Airmen back for their first encore and the inevitable hit, "Hot Rod Lincoln." The Commander said later that the reason they acked around with the song was because they had played it countless numbers of times and had to do something to make it interesting. There was even a few bars of Hendrix' "Purple Haze" thrown in . .

After a prolonged break which featured thousands of watts of house lights, the jet-lagged Pure Prairie League came on to do maybe six songs, and split. Even their top-40 hits, "Amie" and "Two Lane Highway" came off feebly . . .

The New Riders have sounded a lot better in the past and on wax, so we have to give them some atitude, but not enough to invite them back for a third appearance in this area.

Commander Cody certainly earned their money. But they were the only ones . . .

To advocate leaving an area untouched, where man is or has been a member of the fauna, is to urge the creation of an artificial condition. The other extreme is planned wholesale poisoning of both predators and rodents that are natural components of the fauna. An example of the middle ground seems to be the regulated hunting season, in which man scientifically harvests his game species with an eye to management. In this instance, he applies pressure, but under regulations.

CATS HAVE THE LIBERTY TO RING THEIR BELL

With the temperature fluctuating up and down like a yo-yo on a short string, October 11th was officially set as Yankee Doodle Homecoming, honoring, of course, the Nation's Bi-Centennial, and the Wildcats from Weber State University in Ogden, Utah, were the invading adversaries. The Parade began promptly at 10 A.M., led by the local lawmen and the Marching Bobcat Band, followed closely by Queen Katie Kalbfleisch, left, assorted Greeks, and a number of well-decorated floats.

Sales Stadium held the traditional crowd: drunken rowdies, primped Alums, and the Administration making their annual appearance; through a series of fumbles, interceptions, and ground-gaining running plays, the Bobcats intimidated Weber State to the point that, by the end of the third quarter, both teams had their second strings in for a little exercise. The elated crowd witnessed the roll-over victory of 31 to 14 as the Wildcats fell victim to the scampering offense and stonewall defense of Montana State.

For the third year in a row, the Bobcats held a #2 position in the Big Sky Conference, losing the title to Boise State in a dramatic play during the last 50 seconds of the game. Coach Sonny Holland said that the loss of a large number of offensive starters created an obstacle, but that the 'Cats did well and will start '77 with a good assortment of returning players.

Steve Kracher was MSU's leading rusher, gaining 1387 yards during the 1975 football season. Averaging over six yards per carry throughout his Montana State career, Kracher gained 2977 yards to become the school's career rushing leader, surpassing the record of Don Hass who played for the Bobcats from 1965-67.

Kracher was selected as an All-American Halfback for Division 2, a first team All-American by the Coaches Association, and was drafted in the spring to the Minnesota Vikings in the 11th round.

Pat Bolton, a 5-10, 185-pound senior in Secondary Education from Walkerville, had his name etched on the NCAA record book. With 234 points, Bolton holds the Division II kick-scoring record and had a career field goal record of 44 goals out of 74 attempts. He also holds the Montana State all-time leading scorer record, surpassing Don Haas who previously held it at 174 points in 1967. Bolton was drafted in the 12th round to the Atlanta Falcons in the spring of 1976.

Randy Hickel, a senior in Business from Federal Way, Washington, played at the defensive back position for the 'Cats for three years as a starter. He was a member of the track team his freshman year and the added quality of quick feet assisted him in being in the right place at the right time; five interceptions in '73, seven in '74, and four in '75. He was named All-Conference first team once and second team for two years. Drafted in the 11th round, Hickel went to the Minnesota Vikings in the spring of '76.

A Mass of Muddy Bodies, Snowballs, Liquor, and a Full House . . . THE 'CAT-GRIZZLY GAME

Saturday, October 25th was a cold, snowy and blustery day, hardly the weather to play one of the nation's better-known rivalries . . . But Montanans did not fear the inclement weather; a record crowd of 14,300 people, including Montana Governor Thomas Judge, watched eagerly as the Bobcats beat the Grizzlies for the fourth year in a row, this time 20 to 3 at home in Sales Stadium. Poor Grizzlies!

An enthusiastic member of the sixty-piece MSU Marching Bobcat Band performs during the Fresno State game. The sunny weather was a rare gift of Mother Nature, and she wasn't as kind for the practices of the band. Due to the early snow, the practices had to be decreased from the usual 6 hours a week and scheduled for Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday afternoons and additional Saturday mornings, Conductor Glen Johnston told the MONTANAN.

The team for Gymnastics was fairly young in '76. Consisting of a total of six members, the team had a majority of 5 Freshmen and Sophomores. Rachel Korthas, a Freshman from Bozeman, and Mary McDonnel, a Freshman from Billings, qualified for regional competition with work on the uneven parallel bars and floor act, respectively. The future of the team looked good with all 6 members planning to return the following year.

Judo was started last year by a Graduate Teaching Assistant and has continued with many accomplishments this year. This year they have 35 members, both male and female. The goal of receiving a black belt was achieved by two male members. Also one female and several males attained brown belts.

The Judo Club hosted the state championship in March, 1976. Out of 16 trophies, M.S.U. captured 11.

Officers of the club are:
Max Otis — Pres.
Bob Schena — Vice Pres.
Belinda Rinker — Sec.-Treas.

The weightroom in the P.E. Complex was open to all students for weight-training and physical conditioning. Classes were also available in weight-training. Among the equipment available for use was a barbell set, leg-weight machines, running machines and two complete weight machines. Weight training requires effort and dedication on the part of the individual in order to improve strength and stamina.

Forty-five points was all that kept the MSU men from having a perfect spring rodeo season. The women's team won everything in sight. The MSU cowpokes rolled through the season of six spring rodeos with a 6-0 record for the women and 5-1 for the men.

The strong records accounted for both MSU teams being at the top of the list in the Big Sky regional rodeo standings.

THE MEDIA

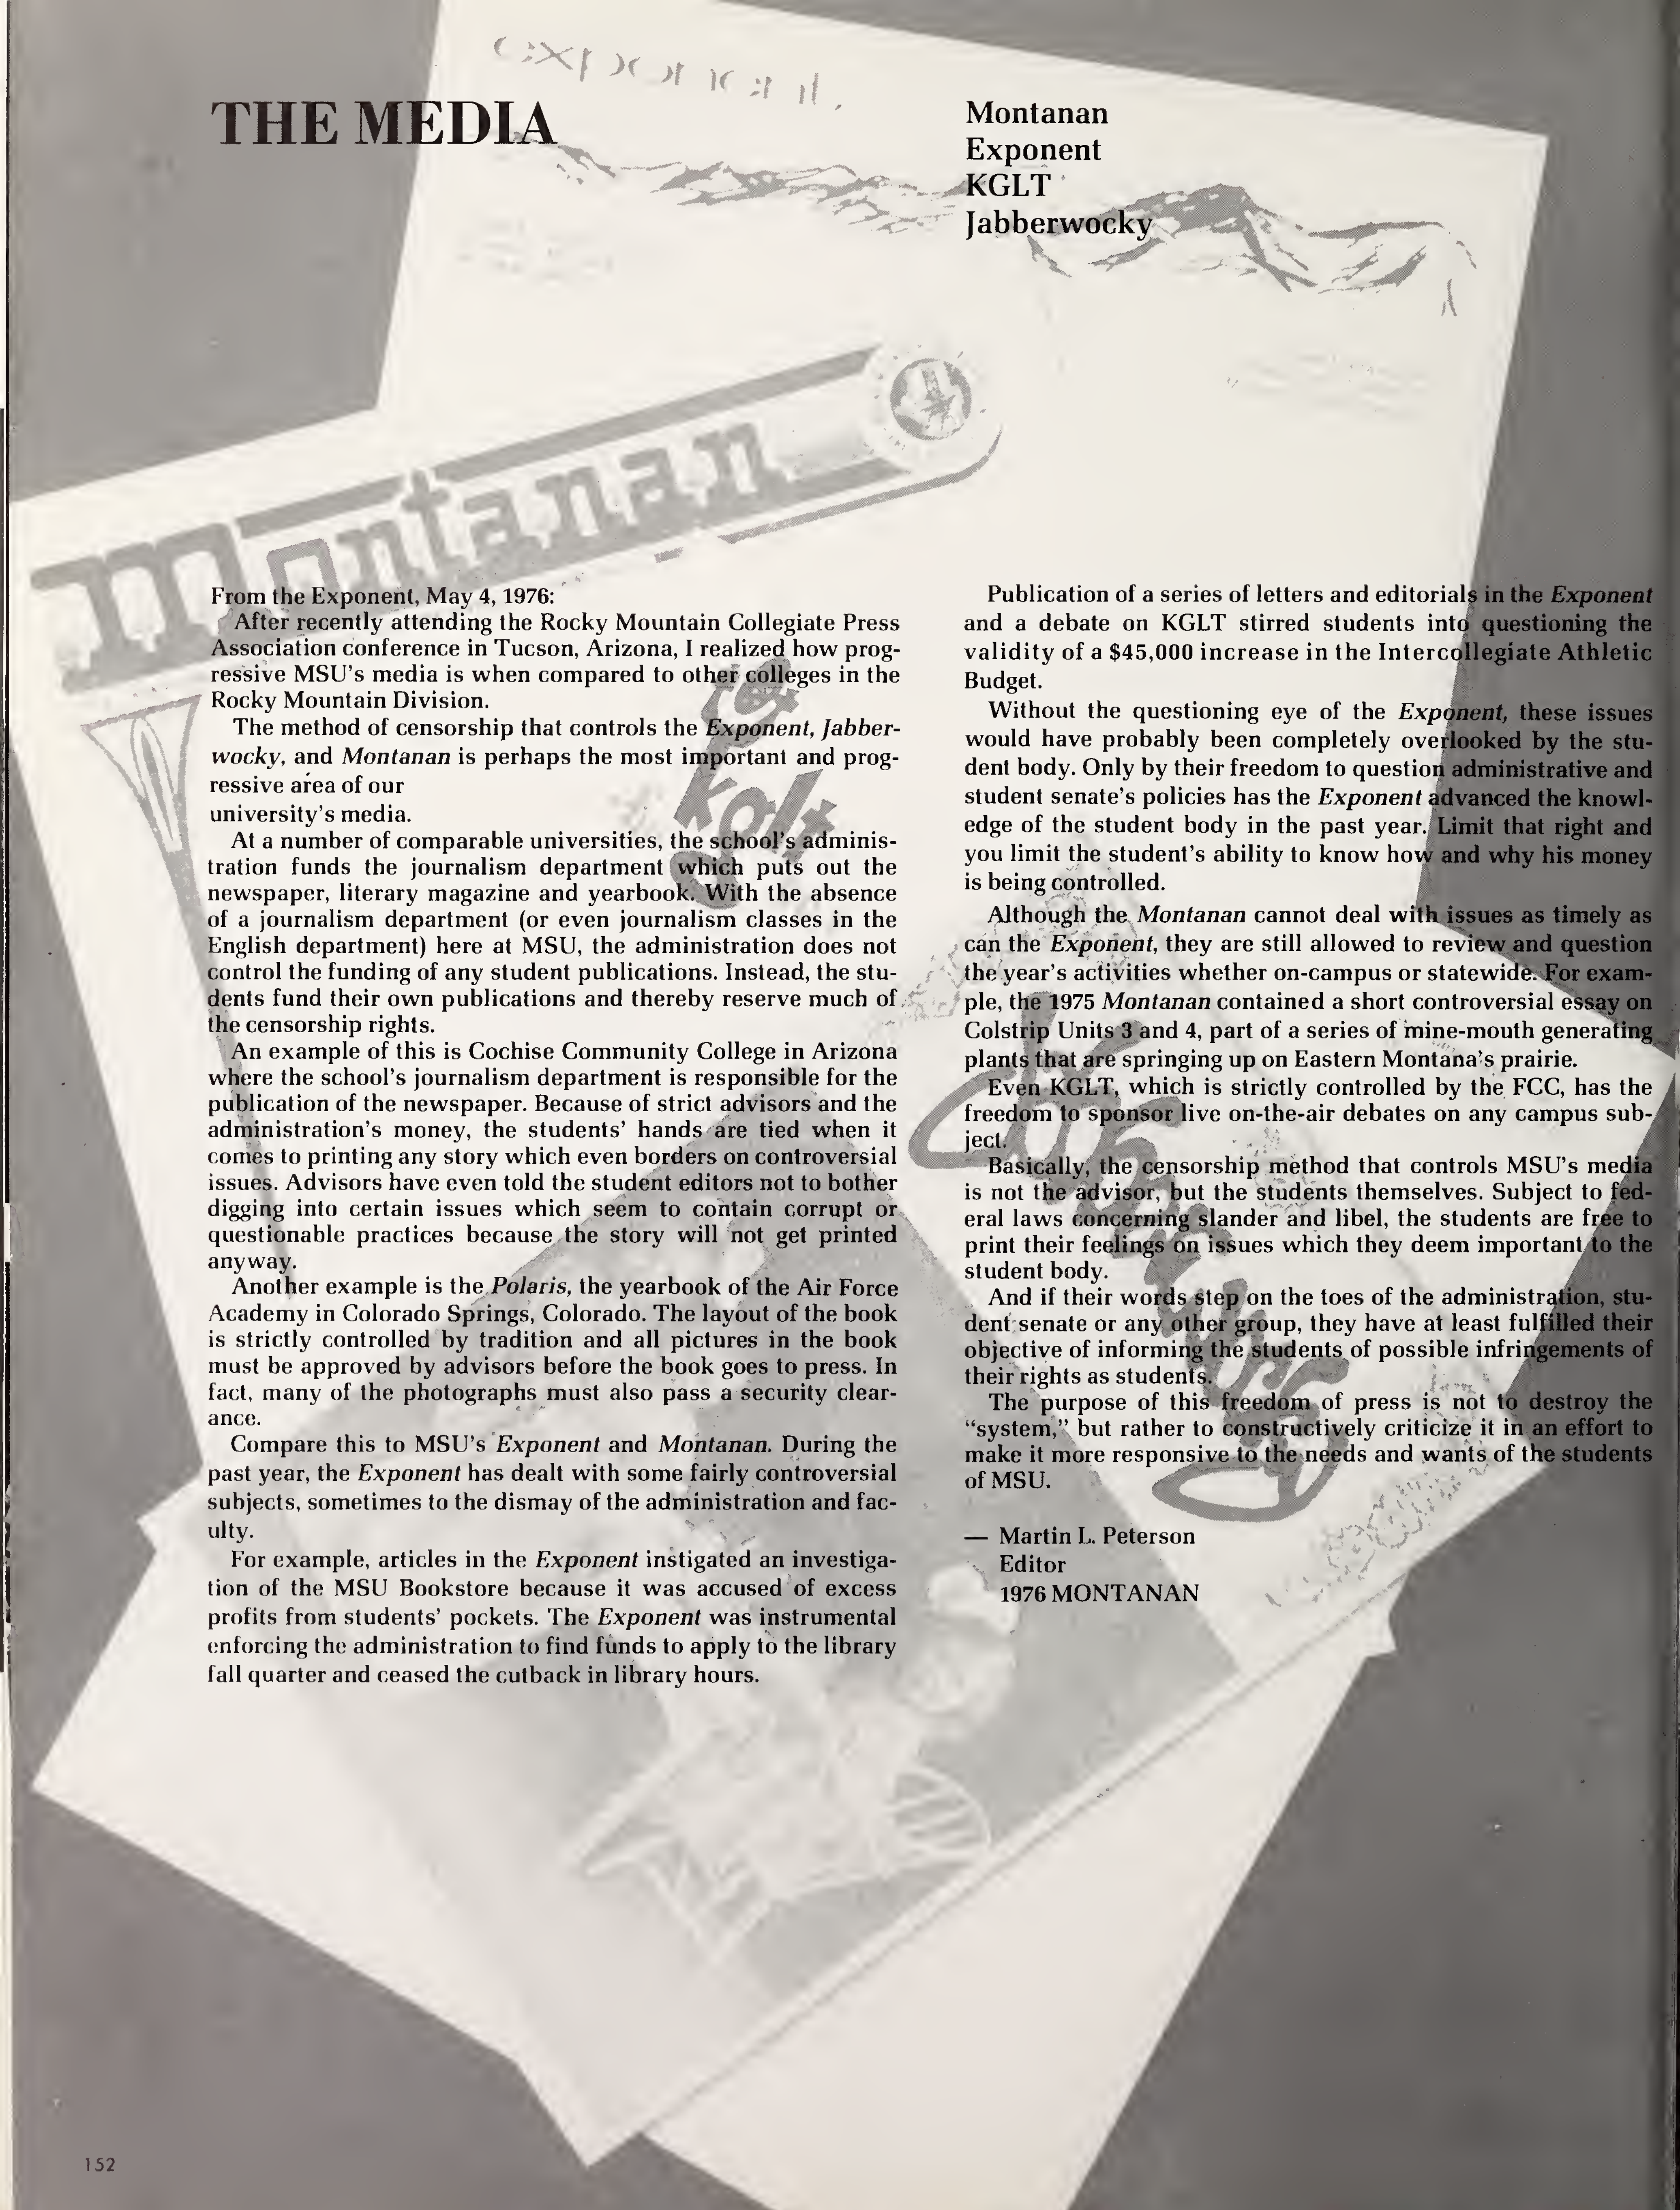
Montanan
Exponent
KGLT
Jabberwocky



From the Exponent, May 4, 1976:

After recently attending the Rocky Mountain Collegiate Press Association conference in Tucson, Arizona, I realized how progressive MSU's media is when compared to other colleges in the Rocky Mountain Division.

The method of censorship that controls the Exponent, Jabberwocky, and Montanan is perhaps the most important and progressive area of our university's media.

At a number of comparable universities, the school's administration funds the journalism department which puts out the newspaper, literary magazine and yearbook. With the absence of a journalism department (or even journalism classes in the English department) here at MSU, the administration does not control the funding of any student publications. Instead, the students fund their own publications and thereby reserve much of the censorship rights.

An example of this is Cochise Community College in Arizona where the school's journalism department is responsible for the publication of the newspaper. Because of strict advisors and the administration's money, the students' hands are tied when it comes to printing any story which even borders on controversial issues. Advisors have even told the student editors not to bother digging into certain issues which seem to contain corrupt or questionable practices because the story will not get printed anyway.

Another example is the Polaris, the yearbook of the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colorado. The layout of the book is strictly controlled by tradition and all pictures in the book must be approved by advisors before the book goes to press. In fact, many of the photographs must also pass a security clearance.

Compare this to MSU's Exponent and Montanan. During the past year, the Exponent has dealt with some fairly controversial subjects, sometimes to the dismay of the administration and faculty.

For example, articles in the Exponent instigated an investigation of the MSU Bookstore because it was accused of excess profits from students' pockets. The Exponent was instrumental enforcing the administration to find funds to apply to the library fall quarter and ceased the cutback in library hours.

Publication of a series of letters and editorials in the Exponent and a debate on KGLT stirred students into questioning the validity of a $45,000 increase in the Intercollegiate Athletic Budget.

Without the questioning eye of the Exponent, these issues would have probably been completely overlooked by the student body. Only by their freedom to question administrative and student senate's policies has the Exponent advanced the knowledge of the student body in the past year. Limit that right and you limit the student's ability to know how and why his money is being controlled.

Although the Montanan cannot deal with issues as timely as can the Exponent, they are still allowed to review and question the year's activities whether on-campus or statewide. For example, the 1975 Montanan contained a short controversial essay on Colstrip Units 3 and 4, part of a series of mine-mouth generating plants that are springing up on Eastern Montana's prairie.

Even KGLT, which is strictly controlled by the FCC, has the freedom to sponsor live on-the-air debates on any campus subject.

Basically, the censorship method that controls MSU's media is not the advisor, but the students themselves. Subject to federal laws concerning slander and libel, the students are free to print their feelings on issues which they deem important to the student body.

And if their words step on the toes of the administration, student senate or any other group, they have at least fulfilled their objective of informing the students of possible infringements of their rights as students.

The purpose of this freedom of press is not to destroy the "system," but rather to constructively criticize it in an effort to make it more responsive to the needs and wants of the students of MSU.

RMCPA

Representatives of three of MSU's four medias attended the Rocky Mountain Collegiate Press Association Conference in Tucson, Arizona, this year. They returned with a number of trophies and honors. The 1975 MONTANAN took first place trophies in color photography, best use of color and cover, second place in sports photography and thirds in black and white photography, theme, layout, copy and general excellence. MONTANAN photographer Scott Armstrong took third and fourth place trophies for nature photography and EXPONENT editor Barb Burgess came home with a second place in the newswriting competition for Journalist of the Year Awards. KGLT did not enter any competition and because of mix-ups, the EXPONENT was entered in only one of the twenty-odd categories.

The Exponent experienced a complete reorganization during the 1975-76 school year. When Dennis Brosten resigned in December, 1975, he requested that ASMSU appoint a special committee to study the proposed reorganization. With Alan Wallace and Judy Calhoun as chairpeople, the committee finally came up with a proposal acceptable to both ASMSU and the Exponent. Barb Burgess, who had been serving as acting editor since December, became the new editor under the reorganization in April. The committee's proposal involved the increasing of next year's gratuities paid to the editor and staff by using the money that the Exponent derives from ad sales. The incentive money to reporters and writers strengthened the paper's campus news and made them less dependent on national news services. At the RMCPA convention in Tucson, Arizona, in April, Barb Burgess took the second place award in newswriting.

When a couple of MSU students strung a fine wire between Pryor and Colter Halls in the early '60's and began broadcasting illegally to the dorm AM radios, they could not have envisioned KGLT going 2000 watts stereo FM in the summer of 1976. Their underground station escaped detection by the FCC but not by the MSU students who started pushing for a campus radio station. A couple of years later, station KMRA was established with the help of the Men's Residence Association to broadcast to the students in the dorms and some Greek houses. KMRA became KATS-AM which finally folded in 1973 because of lack of interest. KGLT was funded before KATS ceased broadcasting but because KGLT's organizers wanted "easy-listening FM" the station was not too popular initially. KGLT has evolved since 1968 to become the most powerful stereo FM station on a university campus in Montana.

The accusations that MSU, in its 1975-76 budget, "hid" a million or so dollars in student fees from the Board of Regents and the Commissioner of Higher Education, received widespread publicity throughout Montana.

Despite the accusations and any implications they might have, students and faculty rallied around President Carl W. McIntosh and gave him their strong support.

Members of the Academic Instructional Faculty appointed a Faculty Committee of Inquiry to go into the charges of the "Missing Million," as the case became known.

The Committee of Inquiry in its report said, in part:

"There is no evidence that the funds were mishandled. Both Mr. Billings, director of budget and program planning, Office of the Governor, and Mr. LaFaver, legislative fiscal analyst, have indicated that as far as they were concerned, MSU adequately accounted for all funds. All individuals contacted by the committee indicated a high regard for the cooperation and professionalism of the MSU Business Office."

WHEREAS: Dr. Carl McIntosh has served with distinction and honor in the position of President of Montana State University, and
WHEREAS: He has consistently striven for the continuation of excellence for which MSU has earned a reputation nationwide, and, indeed, internationally, and
WHEREAS: We have no evidence to indicate that he has performed any disservice to the students of MSU, the State Board of Regents, or the people of Montana, and in fact has worked diligently to justify their trust in him, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED BY THE ASSOCIATED STUDENTS OF MONTANA STATE UNIVERSITY that we continue to hold Dr. McIntosh and his staff totally innocent of any alleged mishandling of excess student funds, and commend them for their services to Montana State University.

Dear Editor,

I would like to commend and congratulate ASMSU's student senate for cutting 18% out of their current athletics budget, and 42% out of the 1976-77 request, with their allocation of $90,376.28. Athletics which presently receives 37% of our student activity fee, has annually received an increase in student dollars, but diminishing student support.

In a comprehensive athletics poll conducted in January, 1976, approved by the Athletics Department, less than one student in 50 supported the 40% increase requested this year. In an annual ASMSU budget survey that included 58 groups, athletics was last, receiving 13% more opposition than the next closest group.

Athletics is an integral, and valuable part of our higher educational experience, but I strongly support Senate in their move to curtail the spiraling cost of the program.

Sincerely,
Jim M. McLean

I DON'T STUDY AT THE LIBRARY ANY MORE – I CAN'T CONCENTRATE ON MY WORK – TOO MANY DISTRACTIONS!

Normal hours of operation were reduced by a total of 15 hours per week for the MSU Library fall quarter. The reason for the reduction was to accommodate raises in salaries within the same budget as last year . . .

By October 10, over 2500 of MSU's nearly 9000 students had signed petitions calling for the university library to be open longer hours. The petitions, circulated by the Associated Students of MSU, were turned over to university officials several days later . . .

ASMSU President Jim McLean presented the case to the Board of Regents at their meeting October 24. The Regent's meeting culminated a series of correspondence to the Governor, Regents, and local officials, including contact with local legislators, and the Chamber of Commerce . . .

The library returned to the same hours as last year on Monday, November 3. The return to the old hours came less than a week after the Board of Regents passed a resolution favoring the maintenance of adequate library facilities.

Dear Editor:

I, for one, am horrified at what Circle K has done to the front walk. More than any other building on campus, the SUB is my home . . .

I object to the desecration of my front walk. I don't even know who Circle K is. What right do they have to smear their name in my path in that manner? . . .

I used to think the HELLOWALK was a nice, friendly greeting — to me as well as to strangers. But a Circle K walk turns me off! . . .

Respectfully Submitted,
Su Nicoloro

Dear Editor:

. . . In regard to Circle K's painting of the Hellowalk, if we are to follow your line of reasoning then every painter who has ever painted a picture, every author who has ever written a piece of literature or any composer who has ever composed a song should not put his name on his work for fear that there is someone, somewhere, who doesn't know who or what he is.

Circle K painted the walk in an effort to voice the feeling of goodwill that this campus extends to all people. Why shouldn't they be allowed to autograph their work?

Sincerely,
Roger Larsen
President

stay on the east side of the river that flows north the one you can't throw a rock across cross a small creek    you can step over it    mica flakes glint in it    it is like an open vein in the bare foothills    walk until you come to a cabin    there is a black horse with a white spot on his back and an old man who spits on the rocks there is a stream    you can hear it when you're talking to him    follow this until you see some ruts they go to his mine shaft    climb up there will be a deer trail angling through some cottonwoods and across a steep slope    it is faint because of all the rocks look for the slightest difference    your feet will know it will take a long time    there are shale slides and some limestone cliffs    but keep going until the trees are all below you    you will see when you are high enough the sage is wind-twisted and crippled by winter snow keep traveling east    four ridges    you will come to a wide green valley that looks like it shouldn't be there cut around the aspen groves    the snakes are in there with their deathflower eyes and they don't rattle until you step on them    when you come to a spring that flows like mercury follow it down to the big stream at the bottom to your left there will be a buck skull it has four points but the procupines might have eaten them down    to your left there is a doug fir down across the stream even during runoff the water barely licks it    walk over this and turn left a small stream forks into the big one if you're not sure look around if there are some elk ribs sticking out of the moss it's the right place    there should be a lodgepole so big you can't put your arms halfway around it    if you brush the needles away you can see where my fire has blackened its roots    i have left some split wood under the deadfall behind you and some dry rocks for a fireplace piled up like a grave marker    it is a good place but you have to remember that you are only a visitor    when you leave it should look like nobody has been there

Backpacking . . .

Being an outgrowth of the back-to-the-earth movement, the backpacking craze hit MSU full-force. Most MSU students are Montanans, anyway, and coming to Bozeman is like walking into one of the world's backpacking paradises.

MSU's Outdoor Recreation Center, headed by Rich McBride, is considering purchasing more backpacking equipment to satisfy the increasing demand. A student could rent all his backpacking gear — sleeping bag, cook kit, foam pad, backpack and tent — for an entire weekend for $6.00.

It's only fifteen minutes drive north to the Bridgers, there are hundreds of square miles of the Spanish Peaks Primitive Area to the south and the Rockies lay to the west.

The beauty of backpacking is that you travel at your pace, stopping for a flower, a squirrel, a moose or no reason whatsoever.

Photos and Story by Michael Degnan

Student Family Housing encompasses a wide variety of lifestyles and persons, where families live in homes ranging from very modest to upper middle class. But a central theme that I encountered in all parts of the housing district was a friendly, down-to-earth atmosphere.

While there were large differences from place to place, that same easy feeling was in most of them. Perhaps the Spirit of the West still lives.

When Jim took over the position as ASMSU President, he brought his toothbrush, teapot and typewriter to the Senate Office and spent an uncountable number of nights typing proposals to the Regents, to Senate, to Bozeman people, and slept many nights on the Senate Office couch because it was too late to go home.

Taylor succeeded Kevin Lombardozzi at the beginning of Winter Quarter. His skill in conducting meetings impartially aided greatly in keeping Senate on the right track.

Peggy was more or less in control of the half-million dollars of student activity fees. Her determined, questioning attitude saved the students from unnecessary purchases requested by a few for a few.

Julie's jokes boosted the morale of Senate and helped lubricate the inherent friction between the senators. Her strong anti-athletic stand made a lot of other senators question it also.

Thanks Jim, Peg, Taylor and Julie.

Student Senate legislated a lot of changes for the MSU students during 1975-76, many of which were directly attributed to former ASMSU President Jim McLean. The May 4, 1976, edition of the Exponent picked the following programs and decisions to be the highlights of the academic year:

— Establishment of University Council, a 40-member council which is composed of faculty, administration and students and acts as a liaison between the Board of Regents, administration and student body.

— Establishment of the Student Legal Aid Program (SLAP) which provides legal advice by a qualified lawyer for any MSU student.

— Establishment of the Community University which provides classes for MSU students and Bozeman citizens for a small tuition. Classes cover the areas of art, language, political science, history, weaving and bike repair.

— Funding of a Child Day Care Center for the next academic year as a pilot program.

— A poll which indicated students were not interested in funding Intercollegiate Athletics (ICA) at the same level as the past was taken.

— A gratuity increase for the Exponent staff was approved.

— A $60,000 decrease from the original request of ICA was approved by Senate for the 1976-77 schoolyear.

— A weekly KGLT senate wrap-up was begun during which a senator discusses the senate's weekly events.

— Sponsored a series of lectures under the Lecture Program with Sen. George McGovern, Germaine Greer, Senator Frank Church and Ralph Nader heading the speakers' list.

— Established a policy in which the Senate would review the spring budgets prior to the spring election.

To the left is Beau Bradley, the newly-elected ASMSU President. Bradley was elected May 31, 1976, by a large margin over his opposition, Kyle Olson and Laurent Chigbrow. Also elected to executive positions in that election were Vice President Jan Otness and Business Manager Jerry Bellandi.

A student sponsored program designed to make low-cost, no-credit courses available to both MSU students and other members of the local community was launched this winter.

Called the Community University, the project is funded by the Associated Students of MSU.

Community University offers 25 courses dealing with a variety of subjects that range from crafts to literature. All courses are evening classes, and most run eight weeks, meeting once a week.

"One of the main purposes of the Community University," says Kären Mickelson, program chairman, "is to bring people from the community closer together with people from the university."

Folk Guitar taught the novice basic chords, strum, and finger picking.

Basic Drawing introduced students to basic drawing techniques with drawings, graphite, silverpoints, perspective, and fundamentals of design.

During the third quarter of the freshman year, each student except those in industrial arts or the preforestry or preveterinary medicine programs will select one of the four curricula in which degrees are offered. At this time the student will also select his option or supporting area from one of a number of areas, including agricultural economics, agronomy, animal science, crops, land resource, range science, mechanized agriculture, plant protection, recreation area management, soils or veterinary science.

The College of Letters and Science has a twofold function: general education for the whole institution and professional training in the humanities, natural and social sciences. Baccalaureate programs are available in the following fields: botany, chemistry, earth sciences, economics, English, fish and wildlife management, political science, history, mathematics, microbiology, modern languages, philosophy, physics, premedicine, psychology, sociology, speech communication, theatre arts and zoology.

In the fall of 1975, there were 1658 students registered in the College of Letters and Science. Graduates totalled 385 in the spring of '76.

Nursing is one curriculum that is not a four-year on-campus program. The freshman year, two quarters of the sophomore year, and the last quarter of the senior year are spent on campus. The remainder of the time is spent doing clinical work at a hospital in Billings, Bozeman, Great Falls, or the Warm Springs State Hospital. It requires a 2.0 G.P.A. and acceptance by the School of Nursing to be admitted to clinical in one of the hospitals.

There are two main nursing curriculums: the regular nursing curriculum and Nursing Home Administration. There are also Nursing Service Courses for people who work with and use nursing and health services.

College of Arts and Architecture

Recently reorganized, the school was renamed the College of Arts and Architecture and in the fall of 1975 housed a total of 995 students. The School of Architecture was the largest of the four under the college with a total of 341: 309 men and 32 women. Second was the School of Film & Television with 198 men and 67 women. Art took the number three position with 253 undergraduates; 158 women and 95 men, and 22 grads. The School of Music had 69 women and 45 men to add up to a total of 114 students.

The five-year curriculum of the School of Architecture is nationally accredited and terminates in the Bachelor of Architecture degree. It is designed to offer a professional education as well as exposure to other academic disciplines. It provides the foundation to qualify the graduate for internship with a practicing architect.

The internship program option allows an architecture student in his fourth or fifth year to substitute six months of employment as an intern in an approved architectural office for one quarter of school work.

The curriculum in art offers a Bachelor of Arts degree with options in fine arts, art history, art education and professional design. On the graduate level, a Master of Arts in art and a Master of Applied Arts are offered.

It provides an opportunity for the student with an inquiring mind to develop his own creative potentials and to become aware of the interrelation of art with all facets of life.

The Department of Film and Television Production offers three options leading to the Bachelor of Science degree: motion picture, television and photography. Many of the courses at the freshman and sophomore levels are shared by all majors regardless of option preference. These professional areas of study are not only important in the fields of entertainment and public relations but are vital in the areas of education and information. Due to the integral relationship of these media, film and television courses are designed to prepare the student for a professional career in either one or a combination of film, television and/or photography.

Two types of options are available which lead to the Bachelor Music Education degree: the school music K-12 broadfield option, and the studio teaching option (which does not lead to certification to teach in the schools). The school music option is designed to prepare the student to teach at all school levels. Musical preparation for positions in the related fields of the music industry (publishing, recording, sales, entertainment) also is provided in these options.

The largest research program currently underway at MSU is concerned with research and development of magnetohydrodynamics (MHD) technology.

Dr. Roy E. Huffman, MSU's vice president of research, says MSU received $4,127,488 in grants and contracts between January 1 and June 30, 1975 and of this amount, $2,828,576 is for energy-related research projects.

Dr. Huffman expects that grant and contract expenditures will total more than $5,000,000 during the 1975-76 fiscal year, with three-quarters of that amount going to expand energy-related research.

Currently between 40 and 50 faculty members and graduate students are at work on ten MHD-related projects.

Dr. Roy E. Huffman says, "The MHD program at MSU is a part of the U.S. energy self-sufficiency plan which will require massive efforts in developing all sources of energy, including solar, nuclear, coal and wind. The country's large coal resources are vital in supplying electricity, synthetic fuels and natural gas substitutes. Montana, holding about 17 per cent of the country's coal supply and Montana State University, with its faculty, students and research facilities, are destined to play an increasingly important role in the development of MHD and other techniques as alternative sources for generating electricity."

The road goes ever on Down from the door where it began.
Now far ahead the road has gone,
  And I must follow if I can,
Pursuing it with eager feet,
  Until it joins some larger way
Where many paths and errands meet,
  And whither then? I cannot say.
